

Faculty position openings

We invite you to become a part of our elite team

About the College of Education

Dean: Cori Mantle-Bromley

Website: uidaho.edu/ed

Contact info: (208) 885-6772

coe@uidaho.edu

The college enrolls over 2,000 students and annually graduates over 190 undergraduates and 250 graduate students (includes master, specialist and doctorate). The college also operates several research and outreach centers including the Center on Disabilities and Human Development and the Center for Ethical Theory and Honor in Competition and Sport. The College of Education generates between $5-7 million in external funding annually.

The College of Education has a strong reputation for innovation and excellence in Idaho, the Northwest, and beyond. We graduate a significant portion of Idaho's school administrators, teachers and counselors and offer dynamic programs that are innovative, effective and often interdisciplinary. Our students emerge from their years here transformed by their experience and confident in their ability to contribute and to make a positive difference in their chosen profession.

The College of Education is not only about teacher preparation. We also offer programs in dance, athletic training, exercise science and health, technology training and development, and recreation. Our graduate programs prepare leaders, counselors and sports psychologists - to name a few.

Our Departments:

Curriculum and Instruction

Leadership and Counseling

Movement Sciences

Our Programs:

Adult/Organizational Learning & Leadership

Educational Leadership

Elementary and Secondary Education

Professional Practices Doctorate

School Counseling

Athletic Training

Dance

Exercise Science & Health

Physical Education Teacher Education

Recreation

Special Education

Vocational Rehabilitation and Community
Counseling

About the University of Idaho

The University of Idaho is the land grant institution of higher education in Idaho. In addition to the main campus in Moscow, the university operates three regional campuses.

Moscow, Idaho is home to the University of Idaho's main campus. Moscow is a pastoral university town nestled in the rolling Palouse hills. Washington State University is located only eight miles away in Pullman, Washington, creating a unique, dual-campus environment for the neighboring communities. Moscow is 80 miles from Spokane, Washington, and is an hour's flight from Seattle. For more information, visit www.moscow.com.

2012 Tenure Track Faculty Searches Currently Underway

visit uidaho.edu/hr to apply

Assistant/Associate Professor of Mathematics Education Moscow, Idaho campus

We are seeking applicants for a full-time, educator and researcher who will be a leader in mathematics education beginning August 15, 2012. The successful candidate will have an earned doctorate in mathematics education or related field and will continue an active research program that includes dissemination and publication of research, seeking external funding, and mentoring graduate students. The successful candidate will also teach undergraduate and graduate education courses, develop and maintain collaborative partnerships with professionals in schools and with state policy makers as well as serve on state, regional and university committees; and participate in professional development and outreach programs for P-12 teachers.

Associate/Full Professor and Director of Teacher Education Moscow, Idaho Campus

We are seeking applicants with an earned doctorate in education for a full-time, tenured appointment as Director of Teacher Education beginning August 2012. Applicant should be an experienced teacher educator and researcher of teacher education with at least three years of experience in K-12 schools. The successful candidate who serves in this newly created position will establish a research agenda and translate research into best practice, view the rugged and rural nature of Idaho as an opportunity to better understand rural education, and value diversity, collaboration and partnership in teacher preparation. The successful candidate will also be the overall administrator of the teacher education programs in Curriculum and Instruction, including elementary education and secondary education, and will coordinate communication, licensure and accreditation policies and practices for programs in other departments across the university.

Assistant Professor in Special Education - Tenure Track Moscow, Idaho Campus

We are seeking applicants for a full-time, tenure-track appointment in special education beginning August 2012. Review of Applications begins March 31, 2012 and will continue until the position is filled. The successful candidate will teach graduate courses in mild to moderate categories of disabilities, as well as college graduate research courses using distance learning and technologies, and advise graduate students to program completion. Successful candidate will also develop and maintain an active research agenda consistent with preparation, program direction, and a doctoral-extensive research institution; develop and maintain collaborative partnerships with professionals in schools and at the Center on Disabilities and Human Development; assist state and regional policy makers; provide professional development opportunities for teachers; serve on university, state, and regional committees.

Assistant or Associate Professor of Rehabilitation and Community Counseling - Tenure Track, Boise - Meridian, Idaho

We are seeking applicants for a full-time, tenure track appointment in rehabilitation and community counseling beginning mid-May 2012. Applicants will have an earned doctorate in rehabilitation counseling or related field with experience in rehabilitation counseling. CRC certification or eligibility and ability to provide transportation are required. The position's primary programmatic responsibility is three part: 1) build relationships with IDVR and related state and private agencies dedicated to or interested in providing rehabilitation counseling services and graduate degree programs in southeastern Idaho, especially in the Boise area; 2) identify and recruit graduate students into a Rehabilitation Counseling Master's degree program and help create Category R online certification courses; 3) deliver related courses and professional development events to state and private agencies during the 2012-2013 academic year in preparation for the degree and certification programs.