Race and Class Distinctions Within Black Communities
A Racial-Caste-in-Class

Edited by Paul Camy Mocombe, Carol Tomlin and Cecile Wright

Series: Routledge Research in Race and Ethnicity

This book offers both a philosophical and sociological model for understanding the constitution of identity in general, and black social identity in particular, without reverting to either a social or racial deterministic view of identity construction. Using a variant of structuration theory (phenomenological structuralism) this work, against contemporary postmodern and post-structural theories, seeks to offer a dialectical understanding of the constitution of black American and British life within the class division and social relations of production of the global capitalist world-system, while accounting for black social agency.

December 2013 | 262pp | Hb: 978-0-415-71437-2: £80.00 £64.00

Selected Table of Contents

About the Authors
Paul Camy Mocombe is Professor of Philosophy and Sociology at West Virginia State University. Carol Tomlin is a Senior Lecturer in Education Studies at the University of Wolverhampton. Cecile Wright is Professor of Sociology, Honorary academic, University of Nottingham.

For more information on this title please visit: www.routledge.com/9780415714372

Order your copy today >>>

Visit our website for more information and online ordering: www.routledge.com

*This 20% discount is only available on titles ordered directly from our website, until 31st December 2014, and cannot be combined with any other offer or discount.